It represents an ideal opportunity for those seeking a spacious family home, wishing to combine residential accommodation with a business, or looking to develop a charming hospitality project in one of the Costa del Sol's most special destinations.

Ground Floor: A Space with Endless Possibilities

The ground floor houses an exceptionally spacious commercial premises that was formerly operated as a restaurant and retains particularly attractive features for anyone wishing to revive this activity. Its location alongside an open village square provides an ideal setting for a restaurant, a distinctive dining establishment or another business that takes advantage of the charm and authenticity of the village.

The space also benefits from several storage rooms and a toilet, providing a practical foundation for adapting the premises to the requirements of a new business.

Alternatively, this floor could potentially be converted into independent accommodation, creating a guesthouse with its own identity and a variety of commercial opportunities, subject to urban planning feasibility and the relevant legal requirements.

First Floor: Spacious Interiors, Natural Light and Castle Views

The main residence is accessed via a separate side entrance, with a staircase leading up to the first floor.

Upon entering, you are welcomed by a magnificent, generously proportioned living room, a comfortable and inviting space in which to enjoy the peaceful atmosphere of village life. From here, there is access to one of the bedrooms, followed by the dining area, which is integrated with an open-plan kitchen that creates a wonderful sense of space and functionality.

This floor also features a second bedroom, currently used as a library, and a full bathroom.

One of the property's main attractions is that all the rooms are exterior-facing. Combined with its south-facing orientation, this allows abundant natural light to fill the interiors throughout the day.

The windows offer attractive views of Casares Castle and Calle Carrera, one of the village's main streets, where the charm of traditional Andalusian architecture and whitewashed buildings can be fully appreciated.

This is a floor characterised by generous living spaces, natural light and a constant connection with the surrounding landscape and everyday life in Casares.

Second Floor: An Apartment Full of Andalusian Charm

Ascending the internal staircase, we reach a second apartment that stands out for its character, architectural details and welcoming atmosphere.

The entrance leads into an attractive living room featuring Casares stone finishes, adding texture, personality and a special connection with the area's traditional architecture. The fireplace forms the focal point of this space, creating the perfect setting for relaxing during the cooler months.

The wooden ceilings add warmth and character, while the views across the village and surrounding mountains create an especially pleasant atmosphere.

The kitchen is both attractive and functional, designed to make the most of the available space and provide everyday comfort.

This floor offers three spacious double bedrooms and two full bathrooms, providing comfortable accommodation for a family, visiting guests or a potential hospitality project.

The living room also provides access to the staircase leading to the laundry area and rooftop terrace, one of the most extraordinary features of the entire property.

The Rooftop Terrace: A Private Viewpoint Over Some of Andalusia's Most Beautiful Landscapes

At the top of the house, we find a magnificent rooftop terrace offering uninterrupted 360-degree panoramic views, making this space a truly exceptional feature.

The landscape unfolds in every direction, encompassing the impressive Sierra Crestellina mountains, the lush greenery of the Genal Valley, the natural beauty of Los Alcornocales Natural Park, historic Casares Castle and the Mediterranean Sea, with the coastline and beaches visible on the horizon.

The terrace also offers a unique perspective over the village itself, with its characteristic whitewashed houses cascading down the hillside, traditional rooftops and winding streets.

It is the perfect place to enjoy breakfast in the sunshine, spend long and leisurely lunches with family and friends, admire the mountains at sunset or simply relax in the tranquillity of one of the most authentic corners of the Serranía de Ronda.

Few things capture the Andalusian lifestyle better than a rooftop terrace like this, where the landscape, natural light and traditional architecture take centre stage.

A Privileged Location with Convenient Access

The property enjoys a practical and central location within Casares Pueblo, approximately a one-minute walk from the public parking areas.

It is also possible to drive directly to the front door, a particularly valuable advantage in a village characterised by traditional streets and winding lanes.

The location allows residents to enjoy the atmosphere, shops, restaurants and everyday life of Casares while benefiting from convenient access to nearby parking.

The traditional façade further enhances the property’s appeal, complementing the distinctive architectural character of the village.

One Property, Multiple Possibilities

Beyond its generous proportions, natural light and exceptional views, the property’s greatest distinguishing feature is its versatility.

Its current layout offers several possibilities, depending on the needs and plans of its future owner:

* A spacious family home, offering generous interiors and distinct living areas arranged over several floors.
* A home combined with a business, with the possibility of reopening the former restaurant on the ground floor while retaining the residential accommodation above.
* A charming hospitality project, making use of the potential to create different accommodation spaces.
* Several residential units, subject to an assessment of the feasibility of reconfiguring and adapting the property.

With approximately 120 m² per floor, a south-facing orientation, abundant natural light, attractive views and a spectacular panoramic rooftop terrace, this property offers a rare combination of generous space, authentic Andalusian character, a central location and exceptional potential.
