Overview

A Dream Penthouse for Entertainment
Higuerón Resort · 3 bedrooms · 3 bathrooms + guest toilet · 135 m2 sea-view terrace

Fourth floor. The lift doors open and there is no corridor, no neighbours. No one between you and your home.

The first security door opens onto a covered glass entrance hall, full of light. At the far end, a second security door. Two doors, two keys and one certainty: no one comes in unless you invited them.

Inside, you feel the quality of the porcelain floors before you see it. Then you understand why everything fits so perfectly: nothing was bought ready-made. Every piece of furniture was designed for this penthouse, for these walls, for this light.

You won't find this kitchen in any catalogue. Its owners chose every surface and every detail thinking of how they wanted to feel making the first coffee of the day. The three bathrooms and the guest toilet follow the same line: a full renovation, noble materials and quiet good taste. Everything is new. You don't come here to fix anything. You come here to live.

From the bedrooms, the terrace is one step away. You wake up, and the first thing that decides your day is the Mediterranean.

The terrace measures 135 m2, but numbers don't explain it. Under the glass canopies, you can sunbathe in January without the wind finding you. Beyond them: the outdoor kitchen, the BBQ, the fireplace. And the bar.

You sit down, and there she is: a ballerina, designed by the owner. She came from the heart before she came from the hands, and every guest will ask about her first.

Coffee at that bar in the morning. A glass of champagne in the evening, as the sea changes colour, the boats appear and the lights of Fuengirola and Málaga come on. The coast, the mountains and the city, all at once. And nothing in between. This penthouse sits above it all.

When friends arrive, the terrace changes. Six at the bar, ten at the table in the glass dining room open to the sea. If the wind turns after midnight, the glass curtains close and the night goes on. At the far end, under its own canopy, the whirlpool waits for the last to leave.

Someone thought of all this before you. Even where no one looks: the laundry room, with its glass roof and mountain views, is designed to the centimetre. Not one metre wasted, and still room for a sauna if you ever want one.

The current owner has thought of everything, improving this property in a smart way, including the laundry area and the terrace, with the care of someone who built it to stay.

But life had other plans. They are going home. They're not looking for someone to buy square metres. They're looking for someone who will sit at that bar, look at the ballerina and understand everything without being told.

Will you be the one who pours the next glass of champagne?
